STATEMENT OF INOPERATIVENESS

→ An argument can be made that U.S. Patent No. 5,208,907 may be partly inoperative under 35 U.S.C Section 112 based upon potentially unclear language in some of the claims of the patent, which became apparent during a court proceeding of Scheduling.com, Inc. v. Eclipsys Corporation and Emtex Health Care Systems, Inc., Civil Action No. Civ00-496-TUC-WDB, in the United States District Court for the District of Arizona to enforce the patent. At least one error being relied upon as the basis for the reissue is as follows.

Claim 1, step (c), reads as follows:

"using said processing means, assigning a plurality of tiles to each of said objects in said object list, at least one of said tiles being assigned to a group of said objects, and at least a second of said tiles being assigned to an individual one of said objects"

An argument is being made by a party to the aforementioned litigation that claim 1 is invalid under 35 U.S.C Section 112, because the specification of U.S. Patent No. 5,208,907 does not support assigning a plurality of tiles to a single object, which is allegedly recited in step (c). However, as is clear from the specification of U.S. Patent No. 5,208,907 and the file history, this is an unintended interpretation of this claim language. The language of the last two clauses of this step (c), i.e., "at least one of said tiles ... objects," was added in an amendment to overcome prior art and to further define the first clause of this step (c), i.e., "using said processing means, assigning a plurality of tiles to each of said objects in said object list." Then, in a later amendment by applicants, the underlined language "to each of said objects" was added to overcome an antecedent basis objection/rejection (not to overcome prior art), which led to this potential clarity problem and this unintended interpretation of this claim.

AB - Input to the system is buffered by the forms manager to determine access to the tile/region and to check entered data. The tile/region will retain various information such as data entered, user, time, changes, etc. To display a form, the forms manager obtains a list of objects to be displayed. This list of objects is then edited to remove objects which are not utilized and to place the remaining objects in a prioritized order. The forms manager then generates the display.
